Children's Day Out

Hundreds of children, some accompanied by their parents and teachers, thronged the Mysuru Zoo which allowed free entry for children on the occasion of Children's Day today. Picture right shows students participating in the Heritage Bicycle Ride organised by the Tourism Department.

Mysuru, Nov. 14 (PM&NNN)- There was a bevy of activity this morning in the city as children celebrated Children's Day, remembering Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, the first Prime Minister of the country, on his 128th birth anniversary.

The Chamarajendra Zoological Gardens popularly called Mysuru Zoo and the Dasara Exhibition Grounds saw a sea of children as authorities at both the places had announced free access to the premises like every year.

As part of Children's Day, for the first time, the Tourism Department had organised 'Heritage Bicycle Ride,' in association with 'Namma Nimma Cycle Foundation' and District Administration. Meanwhile, Kalisu Foundation had arranged an interaction for children with the scion of Mysore royal family Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar at the Mysore Palace.

But most of the action for children was at the Mysuru Zoo and the sprawling Dasara Exhibition Grounds. Children were seen queuing up as early as 8 am to enter the Zoo. Zoo Authority of Karnataka Chairperson Mallige Veeresh was seen distributing chocolates to children.

Five schoolchildren from JSS Bal Jagat School Manoj, Prajwal, Abhishek, Tejas and Manjesh all below the age of 12 had come on their own to the Zoo. Speaking to Star of Mysore, they said, "We are aware that today is Nehru's birthday. We have come to the Zoo because there is free entry and we enjoy watching animals."

Similarly, many children from Government schools were also seen coming to the Zoo on their own. The free entry to the Zoo is from 8.30 am to 1 pm and it is for children below 12 years. The parents and elders accompanying them had to pay the entry fee. Teachers from a few schools accompanied their students and were seen explaining about animals and birds.

The scene was no different at the Exhibition Grounds. The free entry to children up to 14 years saw children in high spirits as they were given biscuit packet costing Rs. 5. The Karnataka Exhibition Authority (KEA) had bought 5,500 biscuit packets and 200 cans of 20-litre water to distribute. KEA Chairman B. Siddaraju and CEO Shashikumar were seen supervising the entry of children.

Isha, a student of fifth standard from Vidya Vahini School at Hebbal said it was her first experience of 'Children's Day'. "It is a very happy occasion and I will cherish this experience for a long time," she said. Y. Chetan, a fourth standard student of K.P. Convent in Gokulam said, "Every year I go to the exhibition. Today I will go to the Zoo," he said.

Children's Day was also celebrated at the All India Institute of Speech and Hearing and it was organised by Department of Special Education of AIISH.

Mixed response to indefinite strike by private doctors in city

- House Committee tables report; drops jail term clause for doctors
- IMA Mysore meeting this evening

Mysuru, Nov. 14 (RK&NNN)- There was mixed response on the second day to the indefinite strike call given by the private practitioners in the city regarding the tabling of the Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (Amendment) Act in the ongoing Assembly Session at Belagavi.

A few of the private hospitals and clinics were functioned normally a day after the 'Belagavi Chalo' agitation while a few others had downed shutters.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, IMA Mysore Centre President Dr. M.S. Vishweshwara, after returning from Belagavi said, "We have to still decide on whether we will participate in the indefinite strike. The members of the IMA are meeting this evening at 5 at the Platinum Jubilee auditorium in J.K. Grounds. However, for instance, today at the Bharat Cancer Hospital where I am working, the Outpatient Department is functioning normally."

Meanwhile, the House Committee looking into the KPME Act as well as the grievances of the doctors, tabled its report in the Legislature today. According to reports, the Committee has dropped the contentious clause of jail term for doctors.

Understanding money, misunderstanding food

Money and food are commodities together in a special league with the feature of a smaller section in the population having them in surplus quantities and the rest left craving to get at them in the face of hardship and disappointment. Is that why a flurry of idioms and proverbs have emerged in most, if not all languages of the land, whether they are classical or otherwise. But for the lack of knowledge of Sanskrit among modern generations, anybody could have dug into a virtual treasure trove of idioms, words of wisdom (subhaashitas), proverbs and verses concerning money and food, scripted by our ancestors, based on their life's experiences. In fact, literature of any language is unquestionably enriched by these two forms of expression which come in handy to drive home points that would have otherwise taken long and winding narratives. Flair for citing proverbs and idioms, particularly focussed on money and food, however, is grossly missing in the present generation, specially the youth.

People at large don't need to be delivered a long lecture on the ongoing cosmic dance as it were enacted by money in one way and food in another way. We are talking of cash-crunch following Nov. 8, 2016 demonetisation experienced by the masses, particularly small-time traders and buyers of essentials of life on a daily basis on one side and the recent abrupt rise in prices of vegetables (for example, Rs. 300 per kg for drumstick) in markets of Mysuru and Bengaluru on the other side. The rich stock of expressions relating to food and money, if one takes the trouble of browsing the sources in the various languages, with script or without, can easily yield a cornucopia of idioms and proverbs, ultimately helping publication of the matter, easily a collector's item. Kannada proverbs (Dudde Doddappa, Kaasidre Kailaasa) are truly the essence of understanding money.

A message of deep philosophical meaning goes like this: "He, who doesn't have is not poor; he, who craves for more is." The food world is as fascinating as one can enlarge his information on it and interprets the knowledge based on that information. Suffice to say: "A vegan (strict vegetarian) who consumes no animal products can be just as unhealthy as an omnivore (one who eats foods derived from both plants and animals)," as a classical case of misunderstanding food.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Two enterprising young bandas discussing the country's changing climate for doing dhandha, or business.

1st banda: India fully deserves the World Bank's shabashi for Ease of Doing Business. 2nd banda: Yeah. Doing dhandha has never been easier for bandas like us. And we bandas have all these bandis to thank for this.

1st banda: Right. First we had demonetisation, or note-bandi. That gave us bandas plenty of opportunity to do dhandha. 2nd banda: Yup, note-bandi gave us 24×7 dhandha. Like charging huge fees to stand day and night in those never-ending queues to get all those bandi 500 and 1,000 rupee notes deposited in benami bank accounts for people who didn't want to do it themselves for fear of being nabbed by the taxwalla.

1st banda: And everyone can see what a great job we did, because the RBI has said that 99% of all the bandi notes have been deposited. Gimme a high-five! 2nd banda: High-five? Have a high-ten! Because after note-bandi came nasha-bandi, in Bihar and other places. And, if anything, nasha-bandi, or booze-bandi, is proving even more of a money-making dhandha for us than note-bandi was.

1st banda: You can say that again. Thanks to booze-bandi we've got more liquid assets than Mukesh Ambani, except ours are in the form of boot-legged whisky, rum and illicit hooch. Cheers to that! 2nd banda: And as if booze-bandi wasn't enough to provide dhandha for us bandas, we've also got gau-bandi, or beef-bandi. — Jug Suraiya in The Times of India

NEWS SPARKLERS

Gold & silver tin can for $1,000

New York: Some people like to refer to the iPhone as an absurd luxury product to pay money on, but if buying an Apple smartphone is burning money, what do you call spending $1,000 on a tin can from New York jewelers Tiffany & co.?

The latest company to jump on the upgrading train is Tiffany & co, with their eyebrow raising tin can priced at a whopping $1,000. That's more than most people spend on actual jewellery, let alone one that looks like a shiny tin can.

Why would any company think that designing jewellry in the shape of a tin can is a good idea? Well, Tiffany & co believe that "beautiful things should not be limited to special occasions," and creating an ordinary-looking piece of jewellery made of gold-coated sterling sliver was the perfect way to show it. Interestingly, the $1,000 gold & silver tin can is just one item in the jewellery company's "Everyday Objects" line, which also includes $650 ping pong paddles, a $450 ruler. That last one's pretty cool, but still, I can think of better ways of spending $9,000.

Save planet by eating fruit fly larvae

Jerusalem: An Israeli start-up has introduced an intriguing potential solution to world hunger – fruit fly larvae. The company, Flying SpArk, co-founded by Eran Gronich and Yoram Yerushalmi in 2014, uses fruit fly larvae to make a protein powder (in regular and low-fat varieties) and oil, both of which are odourless and flavourless.

Fruit flies have a lifespan of only six days but multiply up to 15 times in that time, making them easy and cheap to farm and harvest. And while, Flying SpArk doesn't believe its fruit fly powder can completely replace meat, the company hopes that by becoming a part of human diet, it can at least reduce our negative impact on the environment. Flying SpArk has caught the attention of corporate giant Ikea. The Swedish company has created a start-up accelerator program called Ikea Bootcamp. The mission of the program is to encourage start-ups that are working to solve some of the world's most pressing problems.

Really...?

- Albert Einstein, the most famous mathematician and theoretical physicist in the history of the planet, was many things but remaining monogamous was not one of them. He married twice, once to his own cousin. He then cheated on both his wives with around 10 different women. Once, he almost married his second wife's (who was his cousin) 22-year-old daughter. He had the notion that people had a natural desire to have affairs, and it didn't do any good for them to resist the urge to do so.
- James Joyce wrote the novel Ulysses which is considered to be the epitome of Modernist literature. James and his wife, Nora Barnacle Joyce, used to exchange erotic letters that were quite disturbing. He used to refer to his wife as a "strange-eyed whore." "You had an arse full of farts that night, darling," writes Joyce to Barnacle in 1908, "big fat fellows, long windy ones, quick little merry cracks, and a lot of tiny little naughty farties."

Injection leads to girl's death

at H.D. Kote; 'doctor' flees clinic

Mysuru, Nov.14 (RK&BCT)- A 21-year-old girl died due to infection after she was administered an injection following fever at H.D. Kote yesterday morning. She has been identified as Ankusha from Kalihundi village of Hampapura hobli. She had just completed B.Sc degree from Maharani's Science College and was preparing for her B.Ed course admission. According to her family members, Ankusha developed fever a few days back and was rushed to a private clinic at Hampapura where one Dr. Raju administered her an injection on her thighs and asked her parents to take her home.

After reaching home, Ankusha's parents found out that the part of her thigh where the injection was administered was swollen. They assumed that it was due to the impact of the injection but were shocked to see a lump formed on her thigh the next day. Her parents again took her to the same clinic at Hampapura where Dr. Raju told them that their daughter had developed an infection and would be cured gradually. He gave her more medicines to cure the infection.

Next day, the infection spread and the wound was festering with pus and Ankusha was experiencing severe pain and was unable to walk. When her parents informed Dr. Raju, he offered them to take their daughter to K.R. Hospital in Mysuru. Doctors at the K.R. Hospital advised her parents to shift her to JSS Hospital. As Ankusha had developed severe infection and puss was oozing out of the wound, she was referred to Apollo BGS Hospital for advanced treatment. Her condition worsened and she died yesterday morning after she failed to respond to the treatment.

Victim Ankusha

Soon after her death, Dr. Raju vacated his clinic and even removed its signboard. Ankusha's parents alleged that Dr. Raju was a quack and she had died to wrong diagnosis and medication.

DHO Dr. Basavaraju reacts

Reacting to the death of Ankusha, District Health Officer (DHO) Dr. B. Basavaraju said that he had information about the death and has ordered a probe by H.D. Kote Taluk Health Officer. "I got to know about Ankusha's death and the way she was treated by Dr. Raju, who claims to be a qualified medical professional. I have asked the Taluk Health Officer to check Dr. Raju's antecedents and submit a report," he said.

Dr. Basavaraju said that there were reports that Dr. Raju was a quack and action would be taken against him once the Taluk Health Officer submits a report. He said Ankusha's treatment history had to be examined before a decision can be taken. Admitting that there were many quacks operating from H.D. Kote, Hampapura and other rural side of Mysuru, the DHO said that they would take action if anyone files complaints about them.

"By the time our Taluk Health Officer reached Dr. Raju's clinic, he had vacated the place and had taken away the signboard. We have already made a list of quacks and very soon, we will initiate action against them," he said.

Verbal duel in State Legislature as BJP demands Minister George's resignation

Belagavi, Nov.14 (KMS&DM)- The opening day of the Winter Session of the State Legislature at Suvarna Soudha, Belagavi, yesterday witnessed heated exchanges between the ruling Congress and the Opposition BJP in the Legislature Council as BJP members persisted with their demand for the resignation of Bengaluru Development Minister K.J. # Ignite the talent in your child

Sir,

Here is a tip for parents and teachers on this Children's Day — Ignite the talent in your child. Yes, it is our responsibility, as talent is inborn, a natural aptitude whereas skills are acquired. They are trainable and it's a learned competence.

So, be sensitive and understand that each child is an individual and is gifted with a talent. An opportunity to air out that talent is in our hands. This is not an easy task.

It involves a lot of patience, time and effort. But the end result is so wonderful that the joy it emits is worth all the trouble.

Teachers with their creativity, activity-based classroom teaching, can make it possible for each child to function at his/her own level. Wishing all our children, Happy Children's Day. May they enjoy a healthy, happy and a hearty year ahead.

Ease of doing business: For whom?

Sir,

According to the World Bank, 'ease of doing business in India' has improved substantially and the country has gone up by 30 places. One supposes this applies only to foreign companies which want to invest in India and certainly not for the commonalty of the country.

Here is a sample of the 'ease of doing business' taking a backseat. I have an account in a branch of the country's premier public sector bank. It takes hours in the bank for the customers to even get their SB account passbooks updated.

They have to obtain tokens for this purpose and since the tokens are common for all purposes, the customers have to wait for hours.

In the earlier times the same work would take only a few minutes. In the premises of the bank there is a passbook printer machine which will be out of order most of the time and even when it is working the entries don't get printed properly and the customers are forced to go inside the branch and wait for hours. This is the state of 'ease of doing business.'

DeMo, GST, etc: How to create a mess, then make it messier

Now, link your Aadhaar number to your sambar-vada

Point of VIEW

T.J.S. George

It is difficult to imagine that a full year has passed since 1,000-rupee notes disappeared from our world. Champions and critics marked the occasion by bitterly attacking one another. The champions were high-pitched as they celebrated the anniversary and boasted about three lakh fake companies that were closed down and the detection of fraud involving Rs. 4,000 crore. Quoting their rhyme-loving leader, they said hard work had beaten Harvard.

In a country so cleansed, the critics were handicapped. But their numbers were large. A survey by this newspaper showed that half the people (47.58 percent) thought that DeMo was a bad idea. As many as 60 percent said it failed to reduce black money; 66.52 percent said it did not eliminate corruption.

When Dr. Manmohan Singh said in Parliament that notebandi was "legalised blunder," he didn't cut much ice because he was a Congressman and his record as a Congress Prime Minister was pathetic. But he got more mileage when he spoke as an economist in Ahmedabad last week and asked: "By questioning bullet trains does one become anti-national"?

We have forgotten those who died amid the chaos of notebandi. Manmohan Singh said "more than 100" had died. Wire services listed names and locations of 90, including a bank peon in Pune who succumbed to stress handling large crowds 12 hours a day, and many elderly people who simply collapsed waiting in queues.

Government partisans said the deaths had nothing do with the currency reform. Finance Minister Arun Jaitley dismissed "initial inconveniences" and said the absence of social unrest and "any significant economic disruption" showed that DeMo was a great achievement. There was no social unrest even when the Emergency denied citizens the right to life. But people kicked out Indira Gandhi. On disruption, the Honourable Minister could not have been more wrong. Take just one example: Surat and Tiruppur crown jewels of India's textile exports, were devastated overnight. It was a 400-crore-a-day business in Surat, a 50,000-crore-a-year backbone in Tiruppur employing ten lakh workers. Surat was cut down by half. Tiruppur, dependent wholly on textiles (unlike Surat which had diamonds, too), was reduced to a graveyard. Are these, too, "initial inconveniences?"

The obstinacy with which the Government continues to justify every detail of its decision adds further dimensions to the damage already done. As Kaushik Basu pointed out: "A bigger worry than the demonetisation itself is the failure to recognise that it was a mistake. That is what is getting investors and businessmen worried about future policy decisions."

The biggest conundrum is that, to this day, nobody knows what it was all about. To cut off black money? To starve terrorists of funds? To promote digital economy? The Honourable Finance Minister swears that all these policy objectives have been achieved. It must be one of the great pleasures of life to sit in an ivory tower and believe that you are the wisest that Brahma ever created.

But Brahma himself will have trouble figuring out the sarkari logic regarding high-value currency. We were told that 1,000- and 500-rupee notes were made illegal because they made it easier for bad people to store unaccounted money. Then why were 2,000-rupee notes introduced, making it easier still for bad people? Within days of the pink note's appearance, Indian genius produced stacks of fake 2,000-rupee notes. Stacks of banned old currency are still being transported around by traders who ain't fools. What's going on?

What's going on is a huge big mess. Notebandi created a confusion that other brainwaves compounded, making life miserable for everyone. GST was supposed to simplify the tax system. What it has done is: You pay tax when you earn money, and you pay tax when you spend your money. Worse, you pay more for your sambar-vada and your vitamin pill. There is a GSTN, a network to make tax-paying easy. But when you pay something, the receipt says something else. Errors are justified as server delays and/or session time-outs.

Then there is Aadhaar, a simple idea turned into a torture chamber. One day you are told to link Aadhaar with your marriage certificate. The next day you are told to wait until the courts decide whether your marriage is fake or love-jihad. You then have to link your Aadhaar to your PAN card, the page number of the book you are reading, the number of vada-pavs you can eat in one go and finally your dhobi account. Never forget it is a privilege to be a citizen linked to links.

Awe-inspiring Bottle Art
draws attention at Dasara Expo

Mysuru, Nov.14 (SP&NNN)- Micro art of painting on rice grains, is an ancient art, which is very fascinating to see. However, equally challenging and eye-catching is the bottle art. There are many types of bottle art like painting and decorations on bottles. However, what one finds it very difficult and fascinating to see is the carvings made out of wood like Nanjangud's Dodda Ratha (big chariot), farmer riding a bullock cart, Shivalinga installed inside a mantap.

One wonders how such exquisite craftsmanship can be crafted and bottled. These kinds of creations were on display at the Mysuru Dasara Exhibition Ground premises at a competition organised by the Dasara Arts and Crafts Sub-Committee.

The creator was amateur artist Venkatesh and the visitors were mesmerised to see the beautiful work of bottle art displayed. Each one who saw the works had only words of praise for the artist for his patience and commitment.

How does he manage to create such varieties of art? Venkatesh speaking to Star of Mysore, said: "It requires a lot of patience and perseverance. I create a design, break the wood into small parts, and push each one inside the narrow head of the bottle using spokes of two-wheelers and the design takes shape."

It is really a mind-boggling task to create these attractive artefacts inside the bottle and definitely a rare achievement, said Pushpa, who was viewing the art with awe and respect for the artist Venkatesh.

The other designs in the bottle include wooden clock, Jawa motorbike, ship and swing. Venkatesh has also worked on coconut shells and fibre, which include Anjaneya's picture, human face, coffee mugs, and other designs.

Venkatesh, who is working in a private firm in Bengaluru, hails from Saligrama in K.R. Nagar taluk. As an amateur artist, he has been practising bottle art from a number of years.

"Whenever I find time I immerse myself in this art. Bottle art is one of my favourite arts. I have created a lot of work using bottles. A few of them have been broken and a few others I have preserved. I have also created wooden frames to hang on the wall. A lot of hard work and patience is required."

3D mapping projection at Mysore Palace

Mysuru, Nov.14 (RKB& NNN)- Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep has written a letter to the Tourism Department Secretary drawing his attention to introduce a permanent 3-D Mapping projection at the world famous Mysore Palace.

Buoyed with the success of the 3D mapping projection on the 133-year-old Town Hall since the last two years during Dasara, he has said that the same technology if used to project the 600-year history of the Wadiyars will draw more crowds.

As it is, the Palace is drawing more than 35 lakh visitors every year. A Sound and Light programme is already arranged at the Palace on weekdays. For various reasons, it has not drawn the expected response from the people.

Hence, 3-D mapping is suitable to project the rich history of the city's art, culture and tradition that will come alive on the magnificent Palace building, which will invariably attract more people like it does for the Town Hall during Dasara, the DC has stated in his letter to the Mysore Palace Board and the Tourism Department.

'No Bag Day' at City School catches everyone's attention

Vijaya Vittala School introduces this novel initiative every second Saturday

Mysuru, Nov.14 (SBD&NNN)- It was Mysuru's own renowned novelist R.K. Narayan who had raised the issue of school children carrying heavy school bags in Rajya Sabha more than 30 years ago. Even after all these years, the problem has remained, as children continue to lug heavy bags on their back every day to school.

This issue was again raised in the Parliament a couple of months ago, when Congress MP Ambika Soni wanted to know what steps, if any, had been taken to address this issue. Human Resource Development Minister Prakash Javadekar had said that there were several suggestions being considered.

However, in our city, a school in Saraswathipuram, Vijaya Vittala Vidyashala has become a role model for all the schools. In a novel experiment, it has declared every second Saturday of the month as 'No Bag Day.'

The children have to come to school on that day with just lunch boxes. They will not carry any books or other instruments to school. The back of the children will be devoid of any weight.

Does it mean that children on that day are really free and do not learn anything? On the contrary, they spent their time in very productive ways. 'No Bag Day' has been introduced from this academic year since July.

The Secretary of the Institutions R. Vasudev Bhat toyed with this idea and decided to introduce in his school. Initially, there was stiff resistance from a few parents as they felt that it would come in the way of daily studies. However, when Bhat explained the significance of such a step both the parents and teachers agreed.

"We have introduced 'No Bag Day' from this academic year. We also thought of introducing it every Saturday. But we realised that it will come in the way of completing syllabus and other problems and we finally decided that the second Saturday of every month is a good idea," said Bhat speaking to SOM and added, "The aim is for overall personality development. Hence, we have made yoga and chess compulsory for all students."

Asked whether anything was being done today, as it is Children's Day, he said that today too, the children do not carry books to school.

What are the activities children involve in on every second Saturday? Head Mistress S.P. Asha said that there are various programmes like screening movies, singing, dancing, preparing sandwiches and other creative learning takes place. "The children are very happy and they eagerly look forward to second Saturday. As a result they are very alive and alert on other days," she said.

Now, Indian cricketers to fly in Business Class

New Delhi, Nov. 14- The Indian cricketers will now fly in business class after the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) approved the proposal to upgrade their domestic air travel.

Reportedly, the players have been facing problems while flying within the country with some complaining about selfie requests from fellow passengers and less leg space.

The proposal has been approved in a recently-held meeting of the Supreme Court-appointed Committee of Administrators (CoA) in Delhi, according to BCCI Acting President C.K. Khanna.

The new move by the BCCI means that all the India national cricket team players will now get the comfort of travelling in business-class while on national duty, thus providing a hassle-free ride. Earlier, the facility was only provided to the captain and the coach.

After beating New Zealand in the ODI and the T20I series, India is now scheduled to take on Sri Lanka for a three-match Test series, beginning Nov. 16.

Italy miss out on FIFA World Cup

Milan, Nov 14 - Italy failed to reach the World Cup for the first time since 1958 yesterday as they were held to a 0-0 draw in the second leg of their play-off at the San Siro by Sweden who qualified with a 1-0 aggregate victory. The four-time champions dominated possession but struggled to create enough clear-cut chances as Sweden secured a first appearance at the finals since 2006 courtesy of Jakob Johansson's first-leg strike in Stockholm.

Despite the support of 74,000 fans in a white-hot atmosphere at the San Siro the 2006 World Cup winners could not find a way through.

It is the third time that the Italians will not compete at the World Cup, after not going to the first edition in 1930 and not qualifying for the 1958 finals in Sweden.

It marks the end of an era for iconic goalkeeper Gianluigi Buffon who will not be able to compete in his sixth World Cup.

At 39, the 175-times capped Buffon had announced that the finals in Russia would be his last as a player for the national side.

Without star Zlatan Ibrahimovic, who retired from the national team after Euro 2016, Sweden sealed a return to the tournament after failing to reach the last two editions. The last time the Scandinavians participated was in 2006.

Police held hostage... by mosquitoes!

Mysuru, Nov. 14 (SPN& BCT)- Lakshmipuram Police Station in the heart of the city has a unique problem and the Policemen there are faced with a daily predicament — to come to the office or not. Reason: Mosquito menace due to a broken underground drainage near the Police Station.

If they stay out of the office they are marked absent and their salary will be cut. If they come to the office they are bitten by mosquitoes and fear being catching dengue.

Their fear is not unfounded because Lakshmipuram Inspector Raghu, ASI Prabhudev, Mariswamy Prasanna Murthy and Head Constables Basavaraj Urs and Vanajakshi are suffering from severe fever and have been admitted to various private hospitals in city.

The cause for the mosquitoes menace is because an UGD pipe behind the Police Station has been broken and sewage water has been stagnating for well over two months. Despite many requests and representations to the MCC, the civic authorities have not bothered to fix the broken drain pipe.

Reacting on the issue, City Police Commissioner Dr. A Subrahmanyeswara Rao said that he was not aware of the drainage issue at the Police Station and would speak to the concern authorities and solve the problem.

Policemen complain of not getting their weekly offs

Mysuru, Nov.14 (SPN&BCT)- While the City Police Department is gearing up to fulfil the order to give holidays to Constables and other lower-rung officers to celebrate birthdays of their wards and anniversaries of family members, a section of constabulary is upset with the Department for not granting them their weekly offs.

It may be recalled here that City Police Commissioner Dr. A Subrahmanyeswara Rao, in his efforts to make the Department Constable-friendly and at the same time permit the constabulary to spend some quality time with their families, has issued a directive to all the Station Heads that any Constable, who approaches with a leave application, citing his or her child's birthday as the reason, cannot be denied leave.

As per the order, PSI and below the rank officers attached to all Law and Order and Traffic Police Stations, City Crime Branch (CCB), City Special Branch (CSB), City Crime Records Bureau (CCRB), City Control Room, Mandakalli Airport Security and Fingerprint Unit can avail the benefit and spend quality time with family during their ward's birthdays. The Commissioner has also plans to issue another directive by which a day's leave will be granted to Constables on their wedding anniversaries.

Welcoming the order with a 'pinch of salt', some Constables complained that forget special occasions like birthdays and anniversaries, they were not getting their mandatory weekly holidays. "After putting in more than 12 hours of duty everyday (at times it is 14 hours) we do not get our much-deserving weekly holidays," said Constables.

Last time when the constabulary were planning their protest, the then Home Minister Dr. G. Parameshwara had directed the Police top brass to give mandatory weekly offs to all Constables. "This order was implemented only for two months and now, we are not getting offs," a Constable said and added that the Home Minister's circular has no value now.

He said that if a Constable works on his weekly off, he would get an allowance of Rs. 200 for the 12 or 14 hours he/she puts in that day. "We have requested the higher authorities to at least hike the allowance so that it will help us increase the monthly salary," the Constable added.

Nomads stage demonstration in protest against Police action

Mysuru, Nov.14 (SBD&DM)- Hundreds of residents of Ekalavyanagar, who are Nomads, staged a demonstration in front of Metagalli Police Station here last night in protest against the Police action of taking four nomads into custody on charges of building illegal huts on the Government land at Ekalavyanagar in the outskirts of the city.

Following a compliant by PDO Ramdas that some people were illegally building huts on Govt. land in Naganahalli Gram Panchayat limits of the Taluk, the Metagalli Police who visited the spot on Monday afternoon, evicted the huts, besides taking four into custody for questioning.

But as the four persons did not return even by evening, the nomads and semi nomadic tribes of Ekalavyanagar thronged the Police Station demanding immediate release of the four.

Following the protest, the Police released the four persons after issuing a notice to them.

But the protesters continued with their protest, alleging that the Police were hand in glove with land mafia and the authorities concerned should take measures for putting an end to the harassment of nomads and semi-nomadic people living in Ekalavyanagar.

Later, the community leaders held talks with Dy. Commissioner D. Randeep to look into the matter, following which the protest was withdrawn.

WORD OF THE DAY

Stridulate

Pronunciation: STRI-uh-layt
Meaning: To make a shrill creaking noise by rubbing together special bodily structures — used especially of male insects (such as crickets or grasshoppers).
Origin: Stridulate is one member of a word family that has its ancestry in the Latin word stridulus, meaning "shrill." The word alludes to the sharp, high-pitched sound that is produced by a number of insects — particularly crickets and grasshoppers but also certain beetles — as well as other animals, usually as a mating call or a signal of territorial behavior. Stridulus comes from stridere, which is the direct source of our noun stridor, a word found in medical dictionaries. Stridor means "a harsh, shrill, or creaking noise "and also "a harsh vibrating sound heard during respiration in cases of obstruction of the air passages."

THE ODD WORD

Apoplectic

Extremely enraged.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A legend in one's own lifetime

Meaning: A living person of considerable fame.
Origin: The original use of this phrase was 'a legend in her lifetime', written of Florence Nightingale by Giles Lytton Strachey, in his well-known book Eminent Victorians, 1918.
The name of Florence Nightingale lives in the memory of the world by virtue of the lurid and heroic adventure of the Crimea. Had she died — as she nearly did — upon her return to England, her reputation would hardly have been different; her legend would have come down to us almost as we know it today — that gentle vision of female virtue which first took shape before the adoring eyes of the sick soldiers at Scutari.

CRYPTOQUIP

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
